Ehrlich won't let Friedman quit post

By SBLOMO MAOZ Post Economic Reporter

Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich yesterday rejected Civil Service Commissioner Avrabam Friedman's resignation. He said he had confidence in the commissioner and would give him every support in the future. It was not clear last night, however, wbether Friedman still intends in stand by his resignation.

Commenting on Friedman's move, which tolicwa his opposition to the establishment of a government cor-poration to take over the telaphone service, political circles in Jerusalem say there has recently been a rapprochement between Ehriich and Energy Ministar Yitzhak Moda'l as Moda'i has begun vinning more influence within the Liberal Party to which both belong. These circles say Ehrlich fears to cross Moda'l and that he prefers to go along with demands that Moda'i has put forward, such as - for example — the establishment of a telephone company which Treasury staff oppose. It is said that Ehrlich hopes in this way to atem the tide of opposition to him as leader of the Liberal Party, which now includes his one-time deputy Yehezkel Flomin. Moves to remove Ehrlich from the leadership were already afoot some time ago, following the government's besitations over the abolition of subsidies on basic com-

Other ministers, too, have aroused Friedman's irc by conspiring against the government's wage policies and thus undermining Friedman's negotiating stance. The situation is especially difficult even though a government order lays down cicarly that he is the only official entitled to negotiate wage claims with civil servants.

Moda'i's plans for the telephone company are likely to go awry now with Friedman objecting to approximately 25 per cent of the civil servants being transferred to a government corporation without any prior discussion on the future of the ctvil service.

Egypt put on probation

HAVANA (Reuter). - The Non-Aligned Movement's summit conference ended yesterday with a reaffirmation of the movement's lndependence from sither power bloc. but only after a bitter battle over a proposal to suspend Egypt because of its peace treaty with Israel.

In a marathon session that lasted through the night, the summit left Egypt's status unchanged, but called into question ite future msmbership in the movement which it helped to found 18 years ago. In effect, Egypt was put on probation.

The resolution "energetically con-demned" the peacs treaty and the Camp David talks that led to it as "flagrant violations of the rights of the Arab nations and the Palestine

Disputes between moderates and Cuban-led radicals over Egypt and Cambodia prolonged the summit two days beyond its scheduled closure, amid angry charges of Moscowdirected conspiracies and countercharges of sabotage by tools of Western imperialism.

In the end the radicals seemed to have gained the advantage, barring the defeated Cambodian administration of Poi Pot from taking Its place and scoring a partial victory on

The declaration was still highly critical of the West but the original Cuban draft was cut to delete auggestions that the Soviet camp, was the natural ally of the non-

For the first time in the Non-Aligned Movement, the declaration included a call for a mandatory and total embargo of Israel. This was weakly phrased, however, requiring nations only to make a commitment towards such a move.

The document also effectively endorsed the use of force in opposing the Middle East peace treaties. It sald such a means was justified against any solution "detrimental to the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people."

The summit expressed concern about conflicts in Southeast Asia and urged that they be settled on the basis of territorial integrity and non-interference in internal affairs.

The resolution on the Middle East set up a special commission to investigate what it called damage done to the Arab cause by Egypt in signing the peace treaty with Israel.

The commission will report back to the movement's next forsign ministers' meeting in New Delhi in 1981, which will then decide on Egypt's status within the movement. Egyptian Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butros Gbali angrily

Sharon, Yadin cross swords on settlements

By ASHER WALLFISH Jerusalem Post Reporter

There was high drama in and around the cabinet yesterday as Deputy Premier Yigaei Yadin and Agriculture Minister Ariei Sharon clashed openly about the latest projects in Samaria.

Finally the cabinet decided, at Yadin's insistence, to bold a second discussion on the establishment of two of the four new settlements approved last

The same two settlements. Reihan B" and Dotan, will also come up before the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defence Committee for ratification, under the clause inserted in the coalition two years ago to satisfy Yadin's party. Cablnet secretary Arye Naor published s cabinet communique which iaid down that "all reports published to the effect that the minister of agriculture misled or tried to mislead the cabinet in connection with settlement were baseless." Naor said there was no vote on this point. but it was "the sense of the majority of the ministers."

Yadin, for his part, did not say on the record that he charged Sharon with misleading anybody. Instead, be said that the minutes of the Ministerial Defence Committee, confirmed by a letter he bad received from the cahinet secretary, bore out the fact that Sharon was carrying out settlement projects at two sites which had never been approved in the committee.

The other two of the four latest sites approved — Karnei Shomron "C" and "D" - were not challenged by Yadin and his Democratic Movement, since they appeared to fit the category of "expanding and strengthening existing villages" — a project which the DM was not entitled to appeal.

The entire affair was marked by charges, contradictions and unconvincing rationalizations.

Although Sharon said on Israel TV that the government had approved the four settlements in order to enlarge and streogthen existing ones, Naor told reporters that the concept of 'expansion and enlargement" had not been used by any of the principals involved.

Although Naor said that he had no idea whether the appeal against the settlements meant postponing work on them in the meantime, Yadin told Begin that he would appeal to the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defence Committee as well as the cabmet, because Begin refused to order work on the settlements postponed.

A reconstruction of yesterday's events gave the following picture: The three DM ministers headed by Yadin conferred at 8 a.m. and decided to dig their heels in with regard to Reihan "B" and Dotan, which are so far away from their "parent settlements" that by no stretch of the imagination could they be consldered "expansion."
At 8:45 Yadin met with Begin and requested that no work be done on the two sites which he was challeng. ing (Relhan "B" and Dotan") until the Ministerial Defence Committee had discussed the affair once again. However, Begin replied that hs could not make such a promise since he had not yet read the minutes of the relevant committee meeting. Whereupon Yadin replied that he and his colleagues could not enter the cabinet meeting Idue to start at 10 a.m.) without that commitment. Yadin then called in his two colleagues, Justice Minister Shmuel Tamir and Labour Minister Israel Katz, for a consultation. The three sat there in his office while the rest waiting to open their weekly session. Ten a.m. soon passed and it was already 1:30 when Finance Minister Simhs Ehrlich ieft the cabinet room and went over to Yadin's office to coax him back to the fold.

One of the ministers, explaining to The Post why Begin sent Ehrlich on the delicate mission, said that Ehrlich's dislike of Sharon was well known since Sharon had joined and then left the Liberal Party; that Ehrlich regularly counterweights Sharon in the cabinet on political as well as personal grounds; and that Ehrlich wanted to enhance his usefuiness in the cabinet in general. and to Begin in particular, as a pesce-maker.)

When Ehrlich told Yadin that Begin would convene the Ministerial Defence Committee straight after the fuil cabinet meeting ended. Yadin and his two coileagues agreed to entsr the cabinet room and the session began.

(Last week, Yadin stormed out of the cabinet in mid-session over the settlement Issue, but came back later at Kstz's urging.

The settlement issue did not come up during the actual cabinet session although there were many whispers and asides about it. In the Ministerial Defence Committee, which opened around 12:30 however. Yadin asserted that he had checked the minutes of the relevant committee session and found no mention there of Reihan"B" or Dotan. Yadin also said that Naor had confirmed to him in a letter that no such mention had been made. At this point Sharon interrupted him to say that all four settlements conformed to the committee decision to expand existing sites and that he had shown their location on the map to the committee. Interior Minister Yosef Burg was the only man on the committee who bore Sharon out,

Yadin sald that Sharon had the ap-proval of the committee to proceed with expansion of existing settlements, but be had no authority to set up settlements as much as 12 km. away from existing ones. Nor had the Ministerial Defence Committee the right to delegate two of its members (Defence Minister Ezer Weizman and Sharon) to finalize the proceedings.

Sharon sald: "I shall strip you stark naked on the cabinet table today. Everything you said is a lie." Begin ordered these remarks struck from the cabinet record.

However, Sharon went on, In mounting anger, to declare that he would not tolerate being slandered over the affair of these four settlements as though he had personally taken the decision to establish them without authority, as he had been maligned nearly two years ago over the affair of the "tower and water tank" sites in Northern Sinal.
"I shall not let people spill my blood in vain," Sharon sald.

Then Yadin turned to Begin and sald he was sorry but he could not allow himself to descend to the "reprehensible deplies" to which Sharon was descending in bis remarks.

Sharon turned to Begin and sald: "Do you think that only Yadin can cause crises in the cabinet? I can cause a crisis just like him. And I'll show you, on the day I decide to cause a crisis, the bust-up I shall make will be something to talk about.'

Yadın again asked Begin to call a halt to works at Reihan "B" and Dotan till a new decision was passed. If this was not done, Yadin sald, he would exercise his right to bring the matter in an appeal to the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defence Committee, under Clause 11 of the coall-

Income tax chief complains: Spot checks carried out

sloppily, inefficiently

Post Economic Reporter

Income Tax Commissioner Dov Neiger has sharply criticized the lenient and superficial random tax assessments carried out by his inspectors, The Jerusalem Post has

At a closed meeting of senior income tax administration officials recently, Neiger said that examinations of random case filee ehowed that about haif of the assessees had got off much too light. ly in view of the data found in their files. In cases where taxpayers failed to provide complete information on their income, only about 20 per cent were fined, Neiger complained.

He also complained that in many cases where inspectors uncovered irregularitiee in past tax returns, such as not keeping adequate books, the offenders' tax was adjusted for the current year only and he was not ohliged to make good past omissions.

The new system of tax assess-ment, introduced after the major tax reform of 1975, ie hased on the American eystem of examining a relatively small number of tax returns in depth, and the vast ma-subjected to in-depth examinations are chosen at random or on the basis of grounded suspicions.

In the random case file, all the assessee's activities - hie trips abroad and those of his wife and children, the number and size of his bank accounts, all his assets, the clubs he belongs to, the restaurants he frequents - undergo microscopie investigation, even to the extent of Inspectors emptying out ble wastepaper haskets and scrutinizing each scrap of discarded paper.

In Israel, Neiger claimed, this type of in-depth examination le carried out inefficiently and in dieregard of regulations laid down by the administration, For example, inspectors make do with going over returns but do not vieit the sees' places of business, or thoroughly go over their books,

From April to July only 980 files were examined, and another 430 files started, as opposed to the 2,000 files that chould have been checked. Nevertheless, this was an improvement over last year'e corresponding period ln which only 780 files were

MKs urge probe of cities' financial crisis

By ALAN ELSNER Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - The Knesset Interior Committee, meeting here yesterday, decided to press the finance and interior ministries to set up a epecial inter-ministerial committee to investigate the financial crisis of the local authorities.

Three weeks ago, the Union of Local Authorities decided that as of October 1, municipalities would stop taking high interest or foreign currency bank loans to finance their activities and treasurers would absent themselves from work. Some eltlee, notably Jeruealem and Ashdod, have already stopped taking loans. . Yesterday'e meeting was attended hy a delegation of 11 mayors, headed by Ashdod Mayor Zvi Zilker and Herzliya Mayor Yosef Nevo. After the meeting, committee chairman Shlomo Hillel (Alignment) cald that the time had come to stop playing with the local authorities' financial plight and set about solving it as a matter of priority. The first etcp, he said, is to appoint a sub-committee to determine the exact dimensions of the local authoritiee' accumulated debts, which are disputed between the government and the local authorities.

A source from the local authorities told The Jerusalem Post after the meeting that nothing would alter their determination to force the matter to a crisis after October 1. The source said that the mayors would meet on September 19 to reconsider the situation in the light of developments up to then.

Modi'in protest jams entrance to capital

A cavalcade of about 40 vehicles carrying would-he eettlers in the Modi'in area attempted to block the entrance to Jerusalem yesterday afternoon. They succeeded only in creating a traffic jam which involved a double line of vehiclee which at 5 p.m. was strung for come two kilometres down the highway. Many cars were diverted through Belt Zayit.

The Modi'in area lies just across the pre-1967 border near Lod. The demonstrators' cars earried modest window strips declaring the area to be part of the territory of the State of

A Housing Ministry official said last night that a detailed examination of all alternativee has yet to be carried out. The three-man committee appointed by Mayor

Teddy Kollek earlier this year to recommend solutions for the Ramot road had proposed a light harrier, perhaps overgrown with greenery. that would chield the road visually from the adjoining neighbourhoods. One of the committee members, Prof. Arys Shahar, said last night that such a harrier might also reduce the noise level

The violence ended only when Jerusalem police commander Zvi Ben-Eityahn went to the home of the Hausidic leader, who suggested that peace would come only when the police pulled out. Ben-Eliyahu agreed to pull his men back.

Rabbi Blau told a television reporter yesterday that his followers would continue to shout "shahbes" at cars on the Ramot road as long as Sabbath travel continued. But another Natorel Karta leader suggested in an interview yesterday that quiet might be restored if traffic is alternated on Saturdays between the old and new roads to Ramot.

Private employers to grant pay hikes

By JOSHUA BRILLIANT Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Private employers yesterday decided to go along with the government and the Histadrut and to increase workers' September pay by 5 per cent, to compensate m for recent price rises,

They eaid they were not actually bound by the government-Histadrut agreement but had unilaterally decided to grant the raise "to prevent discrimination against production workers."

In an announcement issued here yesterday they criticized the govern-ment and the Histadrut for failing to consult the Coordinating Bureau of agreeing on the increase. The government had erred in "assuming the authority to negotiate with the Histadrut on behalf of all employers. (This role) was — and must be — en-trusted to the Coordinating Bureau," the announcement said.

Meanwhile the Histadrut yester day asked the government to implement before next pay day its deci-sion to reset income tax brackets. The reform should prevent employees from finding themselves in higher brackets when the wages are increased by 5 per cent.

Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich had agreed last month to fully link the income tax brackets to the costof living index. However, no date was set, and Secretary General Yeroham Mesbel yesterday asked that it be done this month.

The parents' committee met with Mayor Shlomo Lahat last week, but reported that he made no promises to improve conditions and even retracted a previous undertaking to finance a new school wing. Parents were also furious that carlier last week Lahat "had no time" for them because he was "too busy showing Farrah Fawcett around. The head of the central parents' committee, Sarah Zak, told The Jerusalem Post yesterday that there were not enough classrooms in the school and it was generally rundown. "The holy ark is stuck in the small room they call the gym, with the sports accessories," and studies in the prefabricated asbestos huts, acquired last year as additional classrooms, were intolerable.

The number of pupils in the school doubled in the last four years due to the rapidly developing building in the area. The existing school building was built in 1934. In 1976 the municipality and the Education Ministry approved the addition of 12 classes, laboratories, a library and a pedogogic secretariat. The decision was not implemented.

Decisions not to give in to wage demands, and that the sole authority to determine wages should the civil service commissioner, have been taken in the past. But in practice, wage agreements have been broken and, as Prof. Bergias pointed out yesterday, various ministers have by-passed the commissioner in reaching agreements with employees of their ministries.

The director-general of the Treasury, Amiram Sivan, said at yesterday's meeting, — which was overshadowed by Dr. Friedman's resignation — that wages bad become a clear cause of inflation during the past year. He explained that the ceiling on cost-of-living increments had encouraged senior and middle-level officials to demand increments not actually defined as "wages," and the fact that these demands were met led to similar demands by all other civil servants.

The civil service commissioner. Dr. Friedman, called on the government not to reopen wage agreements and not to give in to new wage demands. At the same time, be called on the government to take measures to assure vital services to the public in the event that workers whose wage demands are not met decide to go out on strike.

Independent research team to study Israelis in U.S.

By JUDY SIEGEL

Jerusalem Post Reporter

An eminent American political sociologist and an Israeli-born psychologist living "for the time being" in New York are studying Israelis who have settled in the U.S.

Prof. Seymour Martin Lipset of Stanford University told The Jerusalem Post that the study has no connection with the Jewish Agency or the government. But he and Drora Kass, a 51-year-old psychologist and editor who is doing most of the field work, hope that their study will provide a profile of the emigrants and assist thoes whose job it is to bring them home.

Previous studies, said Kass, have been aimed primarily at finding ways to bring emigrants back to ierael. Their joint research. however, using in-dapth interviews, group sessions and questionnaires, is to determine who they are, so they can more easily be reached. The two researchers start from the premise that the majority will remain Estimated at nearly 350,000, the emigrants constitute a 'new ethnic group" in America, said Lipset.

Kase has begun to reach her subjects by visiting Israell neighbourhoods, restaurants and taxi garagse in New York and Los Angeles, and through UJA contributore' registere and Israell newspaper enbacriber lists. The study should be completed in about a year.

One of their hypotheses is that Jews are historically rootless cosmopolitans and wanderers even from a Jewish state they have established.

Kass, asked to comment on Absorption Minister David Levy's recent programme to bring emigrants home, asserted that "material incentives will make little difference for the majority, but an ample supply of housing and jobs will encourage their raturn."

UK stresses PLO's 'political' side

By HYAM CORNEY

Jerusalem Post Correspondent LONDON. - While condemning terrorist attacks committed by "individual Palestinian groups under the PLO umbreiia," the Foreign Office nevertheiess believes that the PLO is a "political grouping."

Thia has been made clear by Douglas Hurd, minister of state at the Foreign Office with special responsibility for the Middle East, in a letter to Conservative MP Vivian Rendall.

Bendall had expressed concern to Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington at the continued existence in London of a PLO office, and this prompted Hurd's letter.

Hurd stated in his reply that the British government's opposition to terrorism was absolute. "We condemn unreservedly terrorist attacks, whoever perpetratee them.

This includes individual Palestinian groups under the PLO umbrella. But the PLO itself is a political grouping and PLO spokesmsn have on several occasions in the past condemned international terrorism."

Hurd added that he has no reason to believe that the PLO representatives' bere have acted contrary to the law or that they bave links with terrorist activitiee carried out in this country or elsewhere. Last wesk a former IRA terrorist claimed in America that an Arab woman in Ireland acted as liaison between the IRA and the PLO.

Germans forgetting Auschwitz, study claims

By SARAH HONIG Post Political Reporter

TEL AVIV. — Germany's worry about oil supplies from the Arab world has obliterated the memory of Auschwitz, says a World Jewish Congress study published yesterday. Thera and increasing tendency in Germany to improve Felditans with the Arabo states at the expense of relations with Israel, despite denials by the Cermans, ac-cording to the WJC study. This is illustrated by "the nonstop visits by German politicians to Arab countries, which are explained by the need in carry out a 'balanced Middle East policy.' Howsver, the promised visits by the West German prime minister and foreign minister to Israsl are yet in take place."

paying lip service to the "epecial relationship" with large, also counsels Israel to realize that close relations with the Arabs need not mean betrayal of Israel. Israel must adopt a new line of thought and it must understand German dependencs on Arab oil, the Germans repsated-

Another aspect of growing German "escapism" is the attempt to belittle the activity of neo-Nazis and to deny German responsibility for Nazi atrocities. The 35th anniversary of the anti-Hitier 1944 officers' plot was downplayed in West Germany, the WJC report notes.

It further quotes from an Interior Ministry document to the effect that in 1977 the number of neo-Nazi groups increased from 17 to 24. Most of the neo-Nazis are in their 20s and there are few bona fide members, but there exist about 52 other ultra-right organizations with thousands of members." The neo-Nazi "Deutsche Nazional Zelting" has a circulation of 100,000.

The number of violent anti-Semitic incidents, including arson, robbery and desecration of cemeteriee, is also on the rise, the study reveals. The situation is especially serious in the state of Hesse, where printed neo-Nazi propaganda is widely circulated. Nazi periodicals appearing under names such as the "Black Brigades." or the "Brown Brigadee" are openly published and easily

Despite all this, saye the WJC report, Germany is smug and self-confident. It attempts to belittle the neo-Nazi movements and exudee an air of non-concern about the phenomenon. The recent repeal of the statute of limitations on Nasi war crimee is not really meaningful, eays the WJC study. German courts continue to mete out 'comical centences to mass murderere, making a travesty of justice." It is widely believed in Germany today that, repeal or no repeal, there ie little chance new charges will be filed against Nazi war criminals.

A plan to link hoepltaie and, medical schools in the centre of the country to those in outlying areas was yesterday outlined by Health Ministry Director-General Baruch Modan.

Modan told the press that there was a lack of qualified personnel for bospitals in placee such as Nahariya and Afula. Specialists, be said, were unlikely to live in such places. But the difficulties could be relieved by creating manpower poole in metropolitan areas.

Moden also eaid Israel'e medical schools may be turning out too many doctors, many of whom eventually leave the country. It might, be said, be better to train dentists, which Israel sorely lacks.

Incursion cost S'bury biggest losses in war

SALISBURY (Reuter). — Zimbabwe Rhodesian losses in the air and ground action in neighbouring Mozambique were the highest ever announced during more than 30 in-cursions into black states which give aid and sanctuary to Patriotic Front guerrillas.

The casualties included 13 white men kilied when an American-built Bell-205 helicopter, one of a number shipped in despite international trade sanctions, crashed in flames on Wednesday, the first day of the Mozambican radio also reported a second helicopter and a fixed-wing aircraft were shot down and 17 men aboard killed, but this has not been confirmed hare. Communiquas issued in Salisbury reported more than 300 guerrillas and Mozambican troops killed.

The results of the three-day operation initially eaused elation here. Military headquarters in Salisbury said more than a dozen camps used by guerrilias and regular Mozambican troops were destroyed and damaged, as well as five major

In Maputo, the Mozambiean news agency, quoting a military spokesman, said that one helicopter was brought down near a village at the dam on the Limpopo River, while the other halicopter and the uniden-tified fixed-wing plane were shot down in the arsa of Mapai.

The spokesman said the Zim-babwe Rhodesian forces were supported by eight Jaguar and Mirage fighters and four U.S.-built Bell-205 helicopters in their attack on the dam area.

In attacks against the districts of Mapai and Mabalans, the invaders used 13 Mirage fighters, sight troop-transport helicopters and four transport planes for paratroopers,

Arctic grave of 16th century seafarer found

46 Kurdish villagers reported massacred

TEHERAN (Renter). — Unidentified attackers massacred 46 Kurdish villagers at the height of the anti-government rebellion in Kurdistan, the governor-general of Wast Azerbaijan province, Jamshid Ha-qgu, said yesterday.

Haggu said the massacre took piace at Gharneb, near the main road to Naghadeb, not far from where 15 Isiamlc revolutionary guards were killed last Sunday in an attack on their bus by Kurdish guerrillas.

He said the villagers were killed the day after the bus attack and that the two incidents were connected. It was an attempt to provoks unrest between neighbouring Kurdish and Turkish-speaking communities.

"The attackers were not revolutionary guards, neither were they Kurds or Turks. They were just counter-revolutionaries. This was a plot to start a fight between Kurds and Turks," Haqgu said in a telephone interview.

Sources of the banned Kurdish Democratic Party, whose militants have fled to the Kurdistan hills after the defeat of their rebellion in the towns, said four women, eeven children and a number of old men were among those massacred at Gharneh. They alleged a number of the victims had been bebeaded, including the iocal Mosiem priest, named as Mullah Mahmoud.

The official Pars news agency said yesterday that three revolutionary guards were killed in the Kurdish town of Bukan on Saturday night in ciashes with demonstrators. It gave no further details.

A one-night curfew was imposed on Bukan last week after revolutionary guards fired into the air to disperse demonstrators shouting anti-clerical alogans. The incident happened soon after government troops took over the town, which bad previously been held by rebel forces.

Pars also reported that Education Minister Gholam Hossein Shaokuhi had resigned and that his resignation had been accepted. It gave no reason. Ayatollah Khomeini, meanwhile said in a weekend speech: "We will be tied up with plots and problems at the universities very soon.

Washington Post News Service HAVANA. — A private, late-night session of two dozen non-aligned nations abruptly disintegrated last Thursday when Cuban President. Fidei Castro iabelied those governments who disagreed with him the worst epithet one Third World leader can hurl at another -Spanish equiv

"imperialist stooges." But while Castro's denunciations may carry the substantial weight of his personal presence, the Cuban ieader has no monopoly on revolutionary rhetoric bere. Communist or eapltaiist, president, prime minister or king, few of the leaders meeting here for the sixth summit of the Non-Aligned Movement have abstained from liberal use of the code words for what has emerged as the No. 1 non-aligned enemy — the United States.

Each speecb includes the litany of things the movement le against lmpsrlallem, eolonialism, neocolonialism, racism (meaning ties with South Africa) and Zionism (meaning ties with Israei). One doesn't peed a jargon dictionary to know whom they're talking about.

Gabon - explained, the issue was lost because they were no competition for the militants. "For the first time in my life," one of the losing delegates said delegully. "I know what it feels like to be a Third World dissident." Cuba appears to have won some converts through its forceful handlwhich are many of its Latin American neighbours. With 11 Latin neighbours, four added to the summit just this year, Cuba has taken, the lead and the others have more or less followed.

For both Nicaragua and Grenada, following revolutions and the establishment of new governments, the establishment of official relations with Cuba have been considered a way of proclaiming their independence from the U.S.

In other parts of the world, Cuba Friday announced newly established dipiomatic relations with Jordan and

While hosting the summit has given Cuba new access to other governments, it also has allowed the thans at least temporarily to limit the access representatives of the Western bloc have to non-aligned dalegates. At least five European countries and the U.S. have sent their non-aligned specialists here to observe the summit and try to make their influence felt on issues they are con-cerned about. Their contacts bave had to be outside the conference centres and villas provided visiting heads of state since the Cubans have not issued them the credentials necessary to enter. At the same time, the observing epecialists are charging that the Cuban government has followed them and attempted to intimidate those dalegates seen talking to them.

Thus the specialists are largely reduced to hanging around in the lobdelegation members, trying to attract the attention of a friendly face as delegates rush in at night.

. Many journalists covering their first non-aligned summit, at least among the Western press, were awestruck at the thought of being more than 50 are here — and anticipated the kinds of interviews most reporters only dream about.

The truth, alas, is that the segregation of the Third World mighty from the imperialists also appears to include journalists. What gradually became clear during the five-day summit is that, not only the Cuban hosts, but most of the leaders have no intention of allowing themselves to be caught outside carefully pre-prepared self-images. Thus, although a number of the beads of states offered news conferences, littie earth-shaking news emerged.

THE SEVENTH Agritech exhibition of agricultural mechanization and technology which opens at the National Exhibition Ground this morning will be the biggest heid in Israei. With 583 exhibitore and agricultural experts from Israei and 19 other countries taking new the 19 other countries taking part, the exhibition is well on the way to becoming a major event in the international agricultural year.

Organized by the agriculture and industry ministries in conjunction with the Israel Export Institute, the exhibition will provide an opportunity for over 150 Israeli manufacturers to demonstrate their products to potential customers throughout the

At the same time, it has attracted a significant number of foreign firms, which have been drawn by the possibilities of an Israeli market that is always open to technological advancee and by the opportunity to make contact with representatives of developing countries who are attending the exhibition.

Israel's relationship in the field of agricultural technology and aid with many black African nations is well known. This relationship did not come to an end in 1973 when most biack African states broke dipiomatic relations with Israel. Indeed, many countries which now have no dipiomatic tiee with Israei will be represented at the exhibition.

Agritech is already an established event for farmere from the Mediterranean countries, and the sizes of the delegations coming from these countries — which share many of Israel's agricultural conditions underline this fact. Delegations of 150 each are coming from Italy and Greece, and large groups are also expected from Spain, France and Portugal The exhibition organizers are now anxious to increase the representation of farmers from the U.S., Canada, the northern Euro-pean countries, as well as Latin America.

An intriguing goastbility for the future is the establishment of trade and mutual-aid relations with Egyptian agricultural firms; : A joint's Israeli-Egyptian agricultural com-pany has already been approved in principle between the two countries. Egyptian agriculturists have been invited to Agritech, though it will not be known until later, how many will actually attend.

LAST YEAR, exports in agricultural technology earnsd about $300m. for the economy. This year's target calls for a $100 to improve ton this : sertainly figure and Agritech ' play a central role in schieving the result. It will also add to the country'e already-enviable reputation in the field of agricultural technology.

The prestigious U.S. agricultural magazines "World Farming" and "Irrigation" both featured Israel in recent issues. The editor of 'Irrigation" wrote at the end of his roductory article:

"Often I am asked how Israeli oducts and systems compare with se manufactured in the United ates. My reply is that it is obvious at Israel is a step or two shead of A similar testimony appeared in "World Farming," which com-"The need to use water efficiently, united with the fervent 'back to the land' movement of the early settlers, and far-eighted research, and development plans have made Irrael a unique farming country. Farmers in the developing areas are showing interest in Ierael'e solutions to common: probleme. One such subject of interest is irrigation, the most important feature of Ierael'e farm development."

Indeed, irrigation systems will be the major Israell showpiece in Agritech '79, with dozens of firms exhibiting their latest equipment and competing for new orders. Last year, irrigation systems earned $55m. and there will be vigorous competition between the firme to increase the figure substantially this vear. One of the best established companies exhibiting at Agritech will be Netafim, established in 1963 in Kib-butz Hatzerim but now operating in Magal and Yiftah as well, Offering a "complete technology" of irrigation, including field eervice and maintenance, Netafim's in-line drippers, button drippers, pot drippers and pressure-compensated drippers have proved themselves throughout the world and are certain to attract further custom.

Other companies operating under the general title of "Irrigation" inciude the Aharon Tal company, which produces an instrument to test the moisture of soil and Filomat, which purifies water by removing solid particles and cleaning the filter automatically and continuously.

THE SHEER NUMBER of firms in this field gives an idea of the fierceness of the competition. But irrigation is not the only area in which Israeli firms will be exhibiting their wares.

Cotton production equipment will also be exhibited. Israel boasts the highest per acre cotton yield in the world; recults which have been obtained through a totally mechanized process - including seed-bed preparation, planting, air-spraying, eeding, picking and ginning.

Climate-controlled glass-house agriculture is another category in which Israel has made dramatic advancee and which foreign agriculturiete will be etudying carefully. Manufacturers of cooling systems, controls, nets, covers, heat, ventilation and ineulation and humidity sensors will be on display at Agritech.

Lastiy, a whole group of mis-cellaneous aids and devices will be sbown. These include the electric in-eect exterminater originated at Kibbutz Ga'ash, the mowere and knapsack mist and the dust blowers and sprayers produced at Nir David; Sharnoa's onion digging, loading, cleaning; topping and turning. grading, eizing and packing machines and citrus packing machine; Ornat's solar-water pumping system; Milcod'e anti-theft alarm system, and Briggs and Stratton's four-cycle air-cabled engine which run on kerosene and are marketed in Israel by Trigon.

BUSY SEPTEMBER

year is not a time to forget about gardening activities nor the end of the growing eeason. In fact, September is one of the two most important months for planting in this country. The other is February. From the point of view of planting, choosing when to plant depends on where you

In regions with moisture-retaining heavy and medium soil (red soil, clay, ioam), you can sow just now a wide choice of vegetables — carrots, all kinds of radianse, New Zealand spinacb, lettuee, kohirabl and beetroot, as well as parsley and dill. In areas with light (sandy) soil, it is better to wait for coolsr weather after the holidays to sow. In the coastal plain, the Jordan Valley, and along the Red Sea shore, one can plant awast potato (batato or tepuah adama matok in Hebrew) tubers now. There the winter is milder than in the mountains around Jerusalem and in other hilly regions.

During the second half of September, you can also plant potatoes, which will be ready for harvesting after three months of cultivation, in Deecmbar. Thesc winter potatoes can be grown now in all regions of the country. The second half of September is also planting time for tomatoes, eggplant, celery, cabbages and eauliflower. These vegetables do well in all kinds of soil, beavy and light. What is always to be streezed is the importance of prepar-ing the eoil carefully by digging and levelling it and by adding manure or compost and a general fertilizer. Never is concero about good drainage in the garden more important than before the rainy season of autumn and winter. Build your vagetable, herb and flower beds a little higher now, 10-15 cm. above ground lavel. Take soil from garden paths if they aren't paved or take some ordinary soil from fields to raise your beds, but toss out the bigger stones. Make shallow rills; 5-10 om. deep, around your planting beds to secure a smooth flow-off of excess rain water. Otherwise, you may risk drowned and rotting plants. Cook's friend. Spaaking about vegetables, we shouldn't forget one of the most important ones in the kitchen, namely the onion. Onions are plentiful year-round at the greengrocers, but fresh ones from your own garden are always tasticr. Onion bulblate (bat'eall'solim in Hebrew) are available now, and we should seize the opportunity. Onions are rich in vitamine A, B and C and have been valued as a bealthy food for generations. You don't need a ficid, or even a garden, to grow them. Any available empty container, basket or flower pot will provide you potential onion-growing space. The well-known routinsly used soil mixture of equal parts of red coil, com-post and cand will be suitable also for onions. Sowing onion bulblets (5 cm. deep and 5 cm. apart, with about 20 cm. between rows) just now will give you a first harvest of tasty green leaves for your holiday meals. Sweet petatoes belong botanically to the ipomoca (morning glory) family. Native to tropical America, they have become popular in the U.S., where they are the customary side dish to the traditional roast turkey on Thanksgiving Day. This vegetable is rich in vitamins A. B., B. (riboflavin) and C. It also contains 20 per cent starch and 5 per cent sugar and can be baked, boiled, candled or fried like the common potatoe.

Sweet potatoes will spread over a wide area by sending out numerous shoots.

Sweet potato plants produce, a large number of running vines. The edible part is the thick tuberous root, which develops underground like the ordinary potato. Sweet potatoes need more room that the ordinary average bome garden can allow them. But if you can find the space it can be rather poor, sandy soil it's worth growing.

Sweet potatoes are definitely a loog eeason crop. They can be planted in this country at three different times: April, June or September. April and June planting le for the hilly regions, and the September planting time is suitable for the coastal area and other frostfree areas. The easiest way to grow batata is from sprouts. Take some bealthy looking tubers and place them, slightly covered with light soil, a seed box. Water and wait! After a few weeks time, sprouts will appear, which you can pull from the "mother" tuber and plant like out-tings in the garden. The space provided should be 40 % 50 cm. Weeding and cultivating with a light hoe are part of routine maintenance. A fertilizer low in nitrogen and rich in potash should be applied to the stall before planting. Allow 40-50 grains per square metre. Ask your nurseryman to mix you a fertilizer of 2-8-10; (this means 2 per cent nitrogen, 5 per cent phosphorus and 10 per cent potassium). Some four or five weeks later, a second applica-tion of the same fertilizer may be tion of the same fertilizer may be given as a side dressing. The usual "20-20-20" fertilizer contains too much nitrogen and is, therefore, not suitable for these tubers and will promote leaf growth, rather than that of the tubers. Sweet potatose need regular watering every $3 days, according to the weather. They need about half a year of growth to yield a good crop.

Batata for decoration. Many poorple grow sweet potatoes as an indoor decoration. Here you are not limited by space or season. Any flower pot or hanging basks is suitable for this do-it-yourself indoor project. Cut off the sprouted end of a tuber and place it in a flower pot filled with a good compost soil. Water 2-3 times a week in post soil. Water 2-5 times a week in autumn and sparingly (once a week) in winter. Soon quick-growing twin-ing stems will appear and the heart-shaped, sometimes lobed and red-velned leaves will provide a room decertion for a warr time time. The decoration for a very long time. The vines of batata tubers often grow 1-2 metres long. Like sweet potatoes planted outdoors, one inside should never face a temperature lower than

A cheaper, but not so long-lasting; method is to grow sweet potatoes in water without soil. Choose a suitable howl or other waterproof container and fill it half full with lukewarm tapwater. Fix a whole tuber with a small stick or with wire so that it will not be totally submarged in the water and keep the water level steady. Root and runner sprout growth will notonly provide an evergreen attraction, but also a look into the miracle

Batata versus weeds. Some farmers recommend growing balata; as a preventive action against the dangerous local weed called yabiit, which can even strangle fruit trees.

Netafim — Success Story of Drip Irrigation

The 300,000 dunams throughout the country irrigated by Natafim drip irrigation systems, are the finest testimony to the company'e euccess with this method.

The Netafim firm was established at Kibbutz Hatzerim in 1986. From the very first year of its operation, drip irrigated areas were doubled and have continued to do eo annually, in Israel and abroad. The Netafim firm now numbers three plants in Kibbutz Hatzerim, Magal and Yiftah, with approximately 100 members employed. Salee for 1978 reached IL210 million (an increase of about 130% over the preceding year). The forecast for 1979 is an approximate IL350 million sales total. As of today Netafim has manufactured more than 2½ million drippers (the Netafim drippere are the most widely used drippere in the

Netafim Serves the Farmer

The guiding philosophy behind Netatim's research department and of the entire enterprise, is one of serving the farmer and not that of a con-cero selling farm accessories. What has set Netatim apart from the day of its founding was the fact that it never sold individual drip irrigation davices but rather complete systems. Sales technique was based on several casential steps: data gathering in the field by Netafim personnel, and exacting design by the firm's planning department; laying of the irrigation network by specialists in this sphere; instructing the farmer in operating the system, and having our field service people maintain close contact with him over a period of years. A Netafim field service team numbers about 80-50 people.

Research and Development

A research and development department has been in axistence since the day Netalim was founded, and the financial resources at its disposal are among the highest in Israel and the world at large - some 5%-8% of the annual turnover.

The research and development department operatee on several levels: Makes basic surveys of all the information and equipment available, and follow-ups of new local and foreign irrigation methods. 2. Definss actual problems and needs and forecasts possible new

Constructs models of projected items, and applies the resultant findings in Netatim laboratorica. Constructs initial product samples and tests these in the field.

Once the myriad tests have produced positive results, the new item goes into production. In most cases the items cannot be manufactured under the usual standard type of mechanised production. The research and development department concerns itself also with the planning and development of appropriate production methods in coordination with product manufacturers.

The superior, up-to-date mechanisation developed by Netatim has led to export orders from countries such as the U.S.A., South Africa, France and others. Two types of Netafim machinery must be singled out in this respect: the machine which joins together the two sections of the dripper produces some 100 drippers per minute. The other machine which mounts the drippers atop the pipes, producee drippers at a 40 per minute rate. Production line tempo of similar type machines produced by our competitors is about 50% slower!! Recently, the Research and Development completed work on several projects which have already been put into commercial use: 1 Litre per hour in-line dripper

Israel is known the world over as a flower exporter. Its success in this ephere is the result of the superior quality of the flowers (size, colour, etc.), because of the individual treatment accorded each and every flower at every stage of its cultivation.

The demand for Israel produced ornamental flowers has been expanding with each passing year, and this fact obliges the country's farmere to enlarge hothouse areas and to increase the amount of flowers grown within a given agricultural area. Such expansion must not be at the expense of the individual treatment accorded each flower.

These were the facts of the situation confronting Netafim's research and davelopment department.

After a lengthy series of tests and experiments, the department came up with an extremely low supply dripper (I litre per hour) equipped with relatively large water passages. This was brought about through the high hydraulic efficiency achieved in the design of the water passages

(to prevent blockage). The 1-litre per bour in-line now joins the Netatim dripper family whose development made drip irrigation possible, and gave Netatim primacy of place in this epbare.

Self Regulating Dripper
Netafim drippers bad proved their effectiveness in level areas as in areas requiring limited length pipes. It became clear, however, to the Netafim field services personnel that there was a demand for drip irrigation also in places with eizable topographical differences as well as for axtensiva areas.

Attempts to amploy the available drippers in these places did not bring optimum results. The topographical differences and length of pipes gave rise to difficult planning problems and, in ecveral instances, to sisable increasee in the cost of the eystem.

The Natafim ressarch and development department came up with a self-regulating dripper, independent of large-scale pressure differences (stemming from the differences in topography and pipe lengths). These drippers maintain a uniform supply at pressures ranging from 0.5 to 4 atmospheres. In addition to the huilt-in regulating mechanism in each and every dripper, there is an inner machanism for flushing and cleaning the dripper whenever it tends to become blocked because of ac-

Self Compensating Dripline for Row Crops; Easy-te-handle Connector Drip irrigation was not accepted practice for row crops such as cotton, corn, potatoes, carrots, watermslons and sweet mclons. Countrywide field research conducted by Netafim personnel revealed the significant advantages to be derived from drip irrigation for use in row crop cultivation. The problem connected with this type of irrigation for row crops lay in the axtensive crop areas and the topographical differencee encountered there. Natafim daveloped mechanical equipment for the assembly and dismantling of the equipment at band, together with compensating dripline for row crops especially intended for large areas (a minimal 200m. length as against 80m. in orchard use). Connectors which could easily be joined and latar removed, were dasigned for this special equipment, to permit its convenient and efficient assembly and dismantling.

It has been shown that providing the plant with fertilizer together with the water, le a guarantee for good quality crops.

Netafim then developed a Venturi unit for injecting the fertilizer into the irrigation water system. The device has no moving parts, thereby solving the problem of depreciation and allowing the unit to last for years and to be an integral part of the main system head.

The Netafim research department has designed a low supply reguletor which etarts operating once the supply has attained 150 litres per hour. The regulator functions especially well in drip systems for particularly small garden plots. Hitherto there had been no afficacious regulator for areas of this kind. The regulator is equally applicable to plots where overhead and spray watering has been replaced by the drip method. The new regulator will obviate the necessity for replacing the main water conduit.

In irrigation eysteme where fertilizers are employed, it is mandatory to prevent the penetration of these fertilizere, for health reasons, into the ain water conduit. Accessorice on the market today are not absolutely foolproof on this score. Netatim has brought out a new non-return valve which ensures absolute blockage so that fartilizer does not seep into tha main water system. Once the water is cut off, a epring hermatically closes the valve

Israell Drippers Throughout the World

An appreciable portion of the company's efforts are export oriented. An international concern has been set up, in conjunction with foreign groups, to market the drip systems all over the world. The international concern, "Drip Irrigation International," now operates successfully in Europe and the United States, Africa and other countries with which Israel bas no diplomatie ties. Natafire is, furthermore, salling its irrigation systeme and knowhow to countries with which it maintains direct commercial links. Among these are Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Latin American and East European countries, amounting to 47 countries in all. During 1978, exports totalled $1.7 million, with the forecast for 1979 being an overall sum of $2,5 million.

Batatas are deep-rooting quickgrowing perfect ground cover, and the sun-loving yablit will soon die for lack of light. The trouble is later getting rid of the everywhere creeping batatas. Every little piece of batata that remains in the ground will soon sprout and has the potential of ecoming a new plant.

Some Israeli farmers use batata leaves as welcoms cattle food. A species called "B 52" can be harvested eight times a year and yields about 12-15 tons of nourishing cow fodder per dunam. Batata is important in industry as a source for a corn flour substitute, and this tubsr also yields glucose. Naither an industrial complex nor a cattle ranch is nseded to enjoy the growth of this funny and interesting vegetable. As mentioned above, a haif-filled glass of water may be sufficient to start you on a fascinating experiment.

McEnroe plays Gerulaitis in finals of U.S. Open tennis

NEW YORK (AP). - Twenty-yearold John McEnroe pounded defending champion Jimmy Conners 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, on Saturday to gain the final of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. He was scheduled to meet Vitas Gerulaitis in yesterday's all-Naw Yorker final.

Earlier, 16-year-old Tracy Austin defaated eccond-seeded Martina Navratilova 7-5, 7-5 to gain the final against four-time defending champion Chris Evert Lloyd.

Gerulaitis struggled by Roscoe Tenner 2-8, 2-6, 7-6, 6-3, 6-3. Connors, 27, will be absent from the final for the first time in aix years. He won the title in 1974, '76 and '78, and was a finalist in '75 and

Neither McEnroe nor Gerulaitia has been very popular with the home crowds, who seem always to side with their opponents. In McEnroe's second-round victory over Ilia Nastase, the court clown and had boy for years, the crowd cheered for Nastase. So great was the opec-tatore' ire when Nastaes was penalized that they halted play for 15 minutes with their loud, angry protests. The eali-out erowd seemed to favour Connors toward the end on Saturday, Geruiaitis has had similar problems in his own backyard. It is the first U.S. Open final for both men. Neither McEnroe nor Connors played flawless tennis on Saturday. McEnroe made a total of 43 unforced errore to Connors' 62. Connors had more outright winners — 22 to 21 — but not at the key points.

He simply was not as aggressive as he usually is or as he needed to be against the eager McEnroe.

He appeared to offer a friendly word of congratulations to McEhroe, then last the court. Officials at first said ha would appear for his post-match interview after a massage. But later thay said he would not appear because his doctor had "advised him to take a rest."

In another event on Saturday, Bet-ty Stove of the Netherlande and Wandy Turnbuli of Australia defeated defending champlons Martina Navratilova and Billia Jaan King 7-5. 6-3 to eapture the women'e doubles Stove and Turnhull split a $15,000 prize, while King and Navratilova. the Wimhiedon champions this year also, earned $7,500.

All four finalists competed in the singles. King and Navratilova both lost in the semis. Stove lost in the second round and Turnbull in the third.

Myracks sets British long-jump record

GATESHEAD, England (Reuter). -Larry Myracke of the U.S., who earlier this month produced the second-hast long jump of all time, woo the event at an international athletics meeting here Saturday with a lasp of 5.20 metres.

Myracks heat Olympic champion and fellow-American Arnie Robineon into second place to set a British ali-comers record.

In the men'o 100 metres, Britain's Allan Wells beat Houston McTear of the U.S. in the latest of their recent duels, eiceking 10.26 seconds in wet conditions to the American's 10.30.

TRANSFER. - Manchester City Saturday set a new British soccer transfer record hy paying a total of about £1.4m. for Wolverhampton wanderers midfield player Steve Daley. The actual fee for England B international Daley was £1.15m., but Manchester City also agreed to pay tha 10 per cent aigning levy and 15 per cent tax on the deal, which amounted to £1.44 in total.

Tourney starts lawn bowls season

By JACK LEON Post Sports Beperter

TEL AVIV. - Israel's 1972/80 jawn bowls season is now well under way. with the completion on Saturday of the annual singles tournaments at the Ramat Gan, Savyon and

Caesarea clubs. The pairs championships start at the three chibs next weekend, and the Israel Bowls Association will launch its fourth season of league competition at the end of this month, IBA heads Max Spits and Cecil Cooper told The Jerusalem Post yesterday. There will be a hreak in league atta tivity in October, when the amo tion holds its 28th annual natio championships at the country's t greens - two at Ramat Gan and each at Savyon and Cacaares.

A total of nearly 150 men and women bowlers took part in the aingles tournaments, which was played off over the past three

At the Ramat Gan finals, David Amdur trounced Jack Trappler 31-18, to gain his first singles crown, in contrast. Miriam Jankelowitz cep-tured her third straight club title by:

men'e winner at Savyon; overwhelming Harry Frankel 21-6 in the final, to regain his 1977 singles crown. Keeping the top honours in round victory over Gahl Shalag. In the finale at Caesarea, Cyrii Ross beat Mark Lapping 21-14, and Bernice Pillemer came through 21-15.

TAKEN ABACK by the vehemence of Black reaction in the Andrew Young affair, American Jews are divided about how it will affect their traditional liberal attitudes.

Some long-time Jewish civil-rights activists believe that Black hostility is a temporary phase that will wind down when common interests combine to bring these two minority groups together again, Blacks constitute about 11 per cent of the population and Jews less than three per

The optimists include Theodore Mann, the Philadelphia attorney who heads the National Jewish Community Relations Advisory Council (NJCRAC) and the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, and whose own entry lnto public affairs in the early 1960s came in the ranks of the civil rights movement.

There is anti-Semitism among Blacks and there is anti-Blackism among Jews," says Mann, quickly adding that these attitudes are heid by relatively few persons in both Camps.

"I view it as my joh to daal with Jewisb racism and I bope the Black leadership will deal with anti-Semitism in their community." Mann said.

"The year 1979 will go down as a watershed one in this arena," cays a top Jewish professional whose own civil-rights credentials are impeccable.

Some go so far as to compare this juncture with the effect on die-hard Communista of the 1936 Moacow ourgee or the 1939 Ribhentrop-Molotov pact. According to this view, anyone who survives Black eaction to the Young episode with maltered liberal views is bound hy a commitment that transcends the dicates of reality.

Warning that the world doesn't have yeare in which to make a smooth transition to alternative snergy sources, the agency report said, "In its broadest scope, the world energy problem reflects the limited nature of world oil resources," the CIA said. "Although the world is not running out of oil...Limited oil reserves, have already forced a fail in U.S. production, and we expect soon will do so in the USSR. Together these two countries account for one-third of world oil production, and the amount of discovered reserves in both countries

These cautious policies, it added, reflect both a strong preference for production profiles that stretch out reserves over longer periods and an aversion to even a small risk of impairing ultimate oil recovery.

Large pockets of Jewish poor and elderly in New York City were ignored as communal leadership focused on the civil-rights concerns that received much national media attention.

"It was as if the Jewish community here was invisible to them," says one Manhattan shopkeeper who watched his neighbourhood deteriorate. "Our kids were being shut out of free education because of the turmoil in the schools and elderly Jewe were being robbed and murdered without anyone getting terribly upset over it."

The attitude, according to this long-time New Yorkar, appeared to be that anti-social behaviour on the part of minorities fell within a separate category and had to he un-

Given little attention by the Jewish establishment, the vulnerability of Jews llving in deterlorating neighbourhoods was long a subject of quiet diecuesion. A common perception is that the Young episods provided the battleground for vanting deep-seated Black hoatility towards Jews.

Critics say that the full wrath of the Jewish establishment cama crashing down on the heads of a handful of misfits at Skokie, Illinois. who put on Nazi uniforme, while dayto-day depredations on Jews in the schools and straets of New York passed virtually without comment.

For Theodore Mann, the issue still ewaits a clear statement from Carter. "The President has not set the record straight on Andy Young."

AS JEWS PONDER the leseons of the Young affair, some of their queations revolve on the manner in which it was handled by the Israel

Conference last week, the Israel ambassador to the UN, Prof. Yehuda Blum, was challenged when he tried to distinguish between the storm that arose over the Young affair and actions at government leval. "This ie not only a domestic issue," Rabbi Louis Bernstein, president of the Religious Zionist Organization of America, told Blum. Sources close to Blum say that he affixed no recommendation when reporting to the Israel government on his August 13 conversation with

Blum also noted that Young, after unfolding details of his encounter with PLO observer Zehdi Terzi, asked that action be confined too quiet channels, in order to avert Black backlash against President Carter and against the Jewish community

In the course of hie 90-minute talk with Young, held in his office at the Israel miseion, Blum pointed out that what was at stake in Young's meeting with the PLO was the credibility of U.S. assurancee to Young reportedly reptied that American assurances could not be trusted. The startled Blum interjected:

"I beg your pardon?" Young repeated: 'American assurances cannot be trusted." This account of his convergation was reportadly given by Young to a 'Newsweek'' reporter. An exchange of this nature would presumably have helped prompt Jerusalsm to make its protest to the State Department public.

BUT SOME JEWS are questioning whether Jerusalem sufficiently examined the implications of choosing Young as the battleground for its quarrel with Washington over the

"It may have been the only decision to taks," eaid one person who was preaent at the meeting. "The question is whether the possible political repercussions here were taken into account."

Closer to home, criticism has been directed at two Jewieh spokesmen who called for Young'e dismissal ln the wake of the original 'Newsweek' disclosure.

Rabbi Joseph Sternstein, past president of the Zionist Organization of America and chairman of the Zionist Federation of America, filed off his request in a cable to Carter. Bertram Gold, executive viceprealdent of the American Jewish Committee, told a reporter that Young should go if the allegations against him were true.

It was Rabbi Sternstein'e reaction that formed almost the entire basis for a beadline that le belisved to have played a major part in setting the tone of the ensuing controversy.
"Fire him" thundered the three-inch-high headline in the afternoon tabloid "New York Post" following the report of Young's meeting with the PLO and his failure to tell the whole truth about it.

"Jewish Fury at Lie by Young," shouted a second headline, over a story whose text boiled down to quotes from Sternstein and Gold. Thus eensationalized, the story became one of the Jews against Young and was quickly picked up by the national media.

THE PLAY of this story in "The New York Post" was coneistent with the spproach brought to it by its new publisher, the Australian Rupert Murdoch, from a background in a sex-and-eensation-oriented press. No one accuses the paper's editors of being anti-Jewish or, indead, of anything worse than lacking roots in New York City. Most agree that they would willingly do the same for any other ethnic group if it would help seli papers.

The net effect was not a happy one. but it reflected the extraordinary intcrest shown in Israel and in Jewish affairs by the city's three surviving dsillee.

"The New York Times" is easily ahead in the competition for Jewish readers and for the advertising revenues that they attract, but the 'Post' and the 'Daily News' are battling for a share of the market.

 An increase in production in less developed countries (LDCS) outside Opec, especially Mexico and Egypt. Substantial increases in oil production can be counted on from Mexico, Egypt, India and Malaysia in the next several years. Large reserves are known to exist in only a handful of countries. Mexico, with 25 to 30 billion harrels of proved reserves. is by far the leader. The Mexican development effort now in progress should raise oil production to about 2 million barrels daily in 1980 and 2.5 million barrels daily by 1982. This, together with smaller increases in output in India, Malayeia, and several other countries, should raise output in the LDCS to a bout 7 million barreis daily in the early 1980s. · A decline in the net exports of oli from Communist countrise, as Soviet production peaks and begins to drop, Unless the USSR and Eastern Europe are willing to accept a eubstantial slowdown in economic growth and allow increasing consumer hardships, these nations as a group will probably become new importers within three to four years, with East Europsan imports offactting reduced Soviet exports. China should be able to produce more oli than it consumes well into the 1980a.

In the long run, the future of Soviet oil production depends on Soviet success in discovering and developing oilfields in new areas - primarily in the Barents and Kara Seas, the deep waters of the Casplan Ssa, eastern Siheria and the deep onshore Caspian depression. None of these areas has been explored intensively, and any oil finds will bave little im-1980s or early 1990s.

"The problem of adjustment to oli supply constraints will continue far beyond 1982," the CIA said. "Indeed It is likely to be difficult throughout the 1980s. Although longer term projections are bazardous because of ths multiplicity of uncertain factors that can affect oil production, the evidence strongly indicates that a downward trend will soon begin.

"The predominant view among geologists is that the chances of discovering enough quickly exploitable oil to offest declines in known fields are slim. Thus, if the Persian Gulf countries and some non-Opec producers continue to limit production, as we expect, world oil production probably will hegin to decline in the mid-1980s. "Discovery of more than 20 billion barrels of oil a year is needed just to atabilize output at the 1979 level without further daclines in the ratio of reserves to production. No one can predict whether or when fields of the size needed to gain such a discovery rate will be found, Significantly, with the poseible exception of two fields in Mexico, all of the supergiant fields were found more than 10 years ago and nearly all are found in the Middie East. Azorim shows IL31.3m. profit for six-month period

By JOSEPH MOBGENSTERN Post Finance Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Azorim Investment, Development and Construction Co. released its six-month operating report receotly, which showed that net after-tax profits were IL31.5m. In all of 1978, by comparison, the company earned only IL88.3m., and for the comparable six-month period in 1978 it sarned a mere IL7m.

The consolidated halance sheet stood at IL716m., compared with IL552m. at the end of 1978. In the same period Azorim'e liquidity im-proved considerably, with its current assets exceeding current liabilities hy IL50m. as compared with IL17m. last year. The company's capital and funds also increased considerably and totalled IL155m., compared with IL90m. at the end of 1978. A part of the gain is traceable to the income from the rights issues, which yielded some IL51.2m. last January.

The company's stock of land, not including work in progress, which has been listed at IL182m., recently evaluated at ILI.2b.

Currently the company has some 8,000 apartments in various stages of construction. When the Gibor House project and the Clal Centre In Jerusalem are added to this, the total value rises to IL2.4b.

Azorim le controlled by Clal (Israel), which has 88.5 per cent of the equity and 92.5 per cent of the voting control. It was incorporated in 1964. The founding group included Clal, ILDC and Shikun U'fituah.

By 1972 Clai had completed its acquiattico of control over Azorim. 1974 marked a major period of expansion, the firm acquired the Stern group, which had substantial properties and eeveral projects under construction. It will be recalled that the Stern group took over the failing Pan Lon company, but in turn had to divest itself of its Israeli holdings, when the Stern real estate empire in Britain

El Al to close its J'lem freight office

Jerusalem Post Reporter El Al, the Israel national airline, is continuing to reduce its services to clients.

The latest move is the closure of the air freight office in Jerusalem, which is dus to take effect next month.

This means that the residents of Israel'e capital, which also has the largest population and a great number of tourists passing through, will have the extra trouble and expense of going down to Ben-Gurion Airport for all their treight handling. This particularly affects freight despatch.

Unlika reduction of services to clients in the form of closing down air routes, which is hased on a profit and loss calculation, the closure of the air-freight office in Jerusalem is the recult of a petty squabble between the head office and the local branch, The Jerusalem Post learns.

Frazzled French economy

PARIS. — Prime Minister Raymond Barre, the economics teacher whose austere policies belie his roly poly figure, recently ended his third year wondering whether Precident Valery Giscard d'Estaing ean afford to keep him there for a fourth. With the prestdential elections only two years ahead, the belt-tightening administered by Barre seems hardly the recipe for winning Giscard a second term at the Elysée Palace: The 'Barre Plan," as the premier's epartan medicine has en known since he took over from the rebellious Jacques Chirac, is now under scrutiny. For Barre, whose loyalty to Giscard is unswerving, has repeatedly said he would need three years for his measures to obtain Socialist First Secretary Francois: Mitterrand has no doubt that the "Barre Plan" has been a flop. Mitterrand said recently: "It has been the worst setback for French policy since the last war."

From the outset, Premier Barre set as hie watchword the fight against inflation. If he is judged by this vardstick, he has certainly made a poor job of it.

French consumer prices have risen by over 32 per cent during Barre's three years in office. This year the rate is currently running at over 11 per cent, compared with 9 per cent for the last months of Jacques Chirac's premiership.

And the increase in oil and fuel prices during Barre's tenure of of-cent of the overall rise in prices. Indeed, the oil producers have been particularly kind to Premier Barre. He was called from his university amphitheatre well after the Western countries had absorbed the massive inflation of the early 1870s.

Almost all the prims minister'e objectives have sluded him in his combat against Inflation. Over the past three years the volume of money in the French economy bas increased by 14 per cent per annum on average. Salaries, which he set out to curb, have gone up by the same amount. Interest rates are slightly higher than in 1976.

All this bas meant a hard time for the French franc. France's currency has lost 15 per cent of its value against the Deutschmark, 18 per cent against the Belgian franc and even 7.4 per cent against the pound sterling.
The French franc bas fared well only against the world's most ailing currencies. It now buys 17 per cent more U.S. dollars and 14 per cent more Italian lire than before Barre took over the premiership. It has depreciated most spectacularly against the Swiss franc losing 22 per cent of its value - and between 45 per cent and 60 per cent of its worth in terms of gold, depending on whether the yardstick is the Napoleon or the ingot.

Barre's policy of removing price controls has also caused widespread discontent among consumers. Bread has gone up by 22 per eent since the brakes were taken off the bakers last summer for the first time since the French Revolution.

When prices for fruit and egetables shot up in unseasonal style at the end of August, Economy Minister Monory said half of the retail outlists in Paris werc overcharging and risked prosecution. But nobody believes that the government would imperil its election chances in 1981 by taking the

Rumania takes tough measures to adjust to oil shortage

BUCHAREST, (AP). — Traffic lights have been turned off, service stations closed and thermostats set down, as Europe's fourth-largest oil producer tightens its belt to save

New concervation measures, among the strictest in the industrialized world, are aimed at making this maverick, Soviet-bioc country self-sufficient in energy by

But they also threaten to reduce at least for the time being — the liv-ing standard of a people who have been told for years that their sacrifices will someday pay off in a better material life. But Rumanian political leaders are apparently convinced that the strict measures are the only way the country can guarantes not only its oconomic survival but the eurprising degres of political independence it has forged for Itself within the Soviet

Although Rumania had been one of Europe's most conservation-minded countries, the new measures. published July 28 and effective August 1, went well beyond those already in effect.

The decree set a maximum of 18 degrees centigrads, or about 55 degrees Fahrenheit, for heating mes and offices, banned driving for two Sundays each month, dimm-ed street lights, cancelled nonessential outdoor lighting and turned off many stopiights after dark. The government also urged people to use the train for trips over 200 kilometres, hiked the price of a litre of petroi from 50 U.S. cents to 62 cente, and siashed by half the amount of fuel made available for government cars. President Nicolae Ceauseecu parked his West German limousing and greeted president Seko Toure of Guinea in a domestic car. Tourists also feit the sting, as the decree reduced by half the number of taxis in Bucharest, a city of nearly 2 million, and almost doubled fares It now takes an average Rumanian three days to earn enough money to pay for a round-trip taxi ride from downtown Bucharest to the city's 'It's actually easier now to get a cab than before, because few can afford them anymore," a taxi driver In its decree, the communist regime also announced that un-designated "big energy consuming enterprisos" might find themselves curtailed or closed altogether. Rumanians also found it more difficult to buy petroi. Peco, the state service station monopoly, reduced operating hours for many stations, closed others, and sheived plans for new ones. Peco officials were quoted by etate television as saying petrol consump-tion in the Bucharest area had declined 10 per cent since the decree went into effect.

Rumania's strict moves were made necessary in part by political turmoli in Iran and by the fact that this is the only communist country that does not receive Soviet oil. While the Sbah ruled Iran, Rumania was importing about five million tons of oil each year. Since the regime of Khomeini took power, tho flow of Iranian oil has boon sharply curtailed.

A really new Germany

WHO SAYS there is nothing new under the sun? A mere 15 years ago Israelis were flercely debating among themselves whether they should have any contacts with Germans, even to the extent of welcoming genuine German anti-Nazis who might wish to atone for the crimes of Hitlerism. Lst alone agreeing to the exchange of amhassadors between the Federal Republic and the

The nay-sayers of those ancient times were, most of them, headed by Herut leader Menahem Begin. Yesterday, the Foreign Minister in Mr. Begin's Cahinet flew to Bonn to plead with West German leaders to show more consideration for the legitimate rights and the just requirements of this country than they have lately been ahowing.

Official West German spokesmen keep denying that anything untoward has happened between Bonn and Jerusalem. The Federal Republic, they insist, "only wishes to carry on a wellhalanced policy in the Middle East."

That is, of course, precisely the catch. Having paid up its reparations to the victims of Nazism - and, incidentally, having supplied for a while arms to Israel as well — West Germany no longer acknowledges any special debt to the Jewish State. The Christian Democrats may on occasion bring it up, but mainly to baat the ruling Social Democrate over the head.

The majorily of Germans (West Gemans, that is, for there is no point of even talking of the East Germans) are of the opinion that it is time to wipe the slate clean, and to treat Israel like any other "normal" state. Bad conscience about the Holocaust need not, in other words, transfer to the country of its survivors.

This is not a view that recommends itself to Israelis, and Premier Begin has laboured hard to make this clear. Of all countries in the world, he has repeatedly argued, Germany ehould he the last to urge on Israel policies that may, in Israel's judgement, threaten its existence.

Except for such reminders of its ever-present past, Mr. Begin has found little use for the Federal Republic. It was, for example, notably absent from the list of countries whose friendhip, or at least understanding, as be told the Knesset in first presenting hls Government, he would seek to cultivate.

Such studied omission of a major European power cannot, however, serve as a guideline for policy, as Mr. Dayan's current visit to Bonn shows. All the more so because the Federal Republic's supposed "even-handedness" as between Israel and the Arabs has recently turned into a decided pro-Arab tilt.

Worse yet, under Chancellor Schmidt's and Foreign Minister Genscher's direction, Bonn has become one of the leading West European exponents of the comprehensive-solution approach. This means in practice emphatic coolness towards the Egyptian-Israell peace, and great enthusiasm for Palestinian self-determination.

What motivates Bonn? It cannot be American pressure, and there is no proof that Germany's need of Arab oil and petrodollars is greater than, say, France's. The antipathy of young Germans for Israel's 'occupation' of the territories is no greater than that of any other group of young Europeans. This is a question worth probing, and it is to be boped that Mr. Dayan will try to get answers and at the same time make plain Israel's attitude towards Germany's new orientation.

Showing warts and all

THE THREE bundred thousand or so wandering Israelis who spent their vacations abroad this summer are beading back for home, some with suitcases heavy with loot of foreign botels, their trall lined with the blackest marks ever against Israel.

The "ugly Israel," it turns out, has done it again. The appeals made in the press, and on the air, by well-intentioned travel agents early in the season to Israeli tourists, that they should behave themeelves while abroad, have been to no avail.

Now it is no longer just a matter of "aouvenir" hunting. The take now includes not just asbtrays, but rugs and pictures. Nor is it any longer just a matter of an occasional display of boisterousness. Now it is a matter of violating the elementary rules of civilized behaviour in public places.

The truly "ugly Israelis" may be only a small minority that gives the reet such a bad name. But we must not kid ourselves: they represent an acceptable Israeli norm. Unless it is rooted out at home, it will show abroad.

Unless, of course, Israelia — who do not have the glittering wads that help the Sheikhs of Araby make up for their ehenanigans - are simply refused welcome outside their home country. The threat has already been made in acveral countries of Europe, and if matters do not take a decided turn for the better next summer, this may well be the last such summer for Israelia, even if no restrictions on travel abroad are imposed at

OUT OF THE crowded, dusty slum quarters of Jerusalem, a new, militant self-help organization is experiencing the birth-pangs of leadership. Sometimes it manages to make headway in the tangle of bureaucracy and political wrangling that is accompanying Project Renewal. Sometimes It fails. Yet so far, in the three months of its existencs, Ohel ("Tent") has gained a position in the public eye - and more important in the official eye that makes it a force to be reckoned with in any attempt to rehabilitate the poverty-stricken neighbourhoods of Jerusalem.

From a small start as a streattheatre workshop for children in Katamon Tet - the most problematic of all the city'e slums -Ohel has become a city-wide um-brella organization for community centres that all bave one thing in

While there may be funding from establishment sources, and guidanca from city-trained counsellors, the policies of the Ohalim and the implementation of those policles, are in the hands of a leadership of young residents that has been undergoing a painful, but exciting birth.

Two months ago, Ohal organized "an evening of culture and protest," at which a member of its central committee, Moti Ben-David, read out a "declaration of independence, which he asked the distinguished chief guest, President Yltzhak Navon, to sign and take to Prime Minister Begin. Navon's polite refusal — ha had just haen attacked in the press for politicizing the mainly ceremonial position he holds created a stir in the media and put Ohel on the political map.

In their declaration, the organization, which encompasses some seven community centres initiated with municipal cooperation and funded from a variety of sources, aald that a "new leadership has grown up in the neighbourhoods," and vowed to take reaponsibility for solving the problems of the slums.

"We aren't experts, hut we know what our problems are and we know that it's time for us to help ourselves," proclaimed Ben-David.

SINCE THAT hot June night in Binyenel Ha'ooma, Ohel activists bave convinced Geneva husinessman and phllanthropist Nessim Gaon, who heads the World Sephardi Federation, to give them office space. And Gaon has given his written promise to raise $200,000 for the organization.

They have demonstrations, and last month, in a headline-grabhing effort, established an "illegal settlement" in an where's the money, where'e the action. We can't slt around waiting for it, and if it doesn't come from the Project, we'll have to find it elsewhere. What bothers Ben-David and other Ohel activists is that while they realize that "the residents of the slums have heen used, klaked around like a football, taken for granted by all the political parties and both the governments," they still need the establishment, because it is only through the establishment that they will ever get the money and the expertise they need.

ONE PERSON outside of Ohel who has daily contact with the organization is Mayor Teddy Kollek's right-hand man, Rafi Devara. Originally a social worker, Devara was instrumental in helping to set up the original Ohel, Ohel Yosef, which after nearly five years now has a ILIam. annual budget and a large staff of salaried municipal workers operating under the direction of an elected hoard of nelghbourhood residents Devara has an amhivalent attitude towards Ohel. He praises the vitality and the youth and says he is gladden ed to see that 'the psychological harrier of residents taking responsibility for their neighbourhoods has come down."

But he is worrled that organizational infantilism, political wrangling and inexperience, combined with an infusion of large sums of money and a failure to apecify concreta lesues and demands, may soon lead Ohel to a form of suicide.

"Ohel represents a portion of the community, not all of it," he says. "The day they have to teli 20 families in Katamon Tet to move out ao that the overcrowded conditions can he corrected - that will be the day it will fall apart."

A contributory factor, save Devara, will he tha lack of experience in leadership. As evidence of this he cites a recent demonstration in the Nahlaot neighbourhood, when residents overturned garhage hins and set bonfires to protest the death of a child who fell into an uncovered sewage cistern.

Most distressing to Devara is

Dry Bones

Ohel's inability to make concrete proposals.

"They are right about the issues, the housing crisis, employment, education. But they have neither the experience nor the discipline to solve those problems. What they have to learn to do is to focus on single issues and it's the single issues that are going to make the social explosion."

Devara says that he sees little hope for Project Renewal, since the cumbersome bureaucracy that has to be built from scratch, combined with the distance between Renewal policymakers and the neighbourboods themselves, will make it impossible to cope with the

Admitting that the project is something unprecedented, he warns that 'It is being handled in the most shlemiel manner imaginable — all for the sake of the political manoeuvree of Housing Minister David Levy, and the Likud's determination to win the next election."

And Ohel, like other neighbourhood organizations that have sprung up, only to have their ex-pectations dashed, could — If it manages not to commit suicide grah hold of a single local issue that could set off an explosion.

THAT EXPLOSION, in the words of one Ohel activist, "will make Wan Sallb look like child's play."

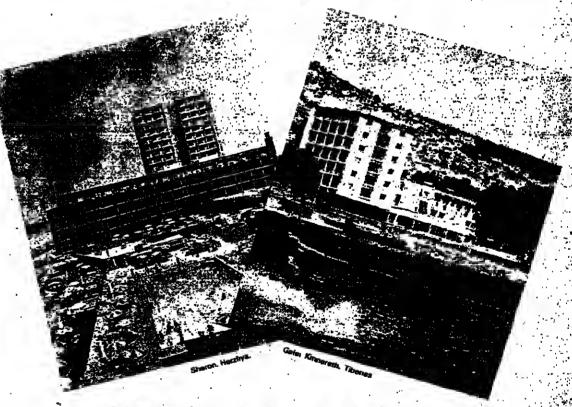

Wadi Salib was a ma'abard and side Haifa that exploded in the early 1950s, when the immigrants house there barricaded themselves free outsiders after an especially bitter winter with minimal shelter and no

The explosion, says another; pecially militant Ohel activist, will come "once our people understand that Project Renewal is the Like": last resort to get our vote again -

The potential explosion, says Devara, 'is a national problem. and it has to be solved soon. It is isevitable. As long as promises are made to groups like Ohei, and nothing is done, the explosion will

Ben-David agrees. 'I don't want to make threats," he said. "I'm worried about the emis sion, too, because when it comes, it'll he our kids out in the streets being teargassed and getting their heads broken. And the ones who won't be in the streets will be on simplement heading for the U.S., Canada and
